Be Responsible!

Ahh, bring on
the Luck 'O the Irish!

Happy March!
We have been working
hard on very important concepts such as literacy genres
and author's purpose.

We've been
talking a lot about
what it means to be a
responsible and safe
online citizen. Please see my email for details. Please discuss
these topics with your child and help him/her
to think of examples
of being a responsible
and safe online citizen

at home, too!

Please remember that attendance
is critical to your
child's academic,
social, and emotional
successes. Students
must be here every day (unless he or she
is sick or there is an emergency). Your child must be sent to school with a note
from a guardian or
doctor.

It is also that
time of year when
classroom supplies are
being used up; especially with all of the winter colds and
keeping things clean!

Any extra tis-
sues, paper towels,
disinfectant wipes, or
hand sanitizer would
be welcomed donations! :)

Please be cog-
nizant of the events
happening in March.
There is a lot happening (including a week
off for spring break)!

Check your child's backpack for
any important information or papers that need to be signed. As always, please feel free to contact me at any time!

Let's continue
to have a great year!
Thank you for all that you do!

Prepare Your Child for Pro- ductive Days By:

- Eating healthy meals and snacks
- Getting to bed early
- Reading to someone every day
- Activating their critical thinking by asking 'why' and 'how' questions
- Designating a home-work spot at home and competing home-work there after school every day
- Encouraging him/her to do their best every day
